

There is too much violence on TV, for both adults and children.
The children have come to think of it as a normal part of life, fiction and fact have blurred, along with right and wrong.